ABOUT YOUR DIVE

The beautiful Cypress Springs is an exciting new dive offering a small but pristine cavern with depths to 70 feet. First explored during February, 1985, by Woody Jasper, this spring was later opened to the public for diving. Entering the cavern through an oval shaped vent approximately 10′ × 6′ with an unusually strong flow. The cavern immediately opens up into a room approximately 40 feet with a maximum height of 14 feet.

Continuing beyond, the cavern angles through a shaft to a maximum depth of 70 feet. Divers can clearly see the surface and natural daylight from this point at maximum penetration.

ABOUT CYPRESS SPRINGS

Cypress Springs, owned by Harold and Linda Vickers, located in Washington County, is the largest spring in Washington County, producing close to 90 million gallons of water per day. The spring is about 2 miles north of Vernon at the head of a tributary of Holmes Creek. The spring flows southerly .03 miles where it enters into Holmes Creek, and at lower water levels, can be larger than Holmes Creek itself.

The spring pool is nearly circular, has a diameter of 150 feet and a maximum depth of about 20 feet near the vent in the west central part of the pool.

The area is lowland where cypress trees and wildlife are numerous. The bottom of the pool is sand with a quantity of aquatic vegetation.

Cypress Springs discharge to the south and through a run about 1,000 feet long and 140 to 160 feet wide. Depths along the run range from 1 to 3 feet, although depth of the run and size of the spring pool depend on the flow of Holmes Creek. When stage is high may back water over spring area.

Cypress Springs is beautiful for swimming, snorkeling and diving with water visibility of over 300 feet which is ideal for underwater photography.
